Our Mission: Simply Better Service for a World-Class Community

This annual report provides an overview of the city of Scottsdale's priorities, strategic initiatives and performance measures. It is organized around the six guiding principles the city uses to achieve its mission.

Nearly 8,000 people directly serve Scottsdale in this mission. Voters elect the mayor and six council members to set policy and direction, who in turn appoint six charter officers to advise them and run day-to-day operations. About 2,800 employees deliver hundreds of programs and services for residents and businesses and those employees are joined by more than 6,000 volunteers. That team serves more than 250,000 people who call Scottsdale home and about nine million people who visit our community each year.

Seek Sustainability

As a desert community, Scottsdale values conserving natural resources to sustain our quality of life.

Highlighted Accomplishments

- Residents diverted 28 percent of household waste to recycling rather than shipping it to the landfill.
- Scottsdale’s fleet of solid waste collection vehicles is green. Six out of every 10 trucks are powered by compressed natural gas, while the rest use bio-diesel.
- Scottsdale Water is working with large commercial customers, providing recommendations and tools that save more than 38 million gallons of water annually.

Looking Forward

- Scottsdale is doing its part to improve our air quality by maintaining its green fleet and by reducing the total mileage driven by five percent in the next year.

Scottsdale Water launched the Choose Tap! campaign to promote the city’s water quality, value and convenience. Twenty bottle filling stations were installed around the community and a bottle refill trailer spread the word at events. Combined they dispensed more than 18,000 gallons of water – offsetting the equivalent of 100,000 one-time use plastic water bottles.

The typical Scottsdale household pays less for monthly water, wastewater, trash and recycling service than the average rates for other Valley cities.

The Resources and Expenses that Fund Scottsdale’s High Quality of Life

Scottsdale is required by law to adopt a budget each year and cannot spend more than that total amount. This includes all city funds for the fiscal year ending June 30. These numbers are as adopted by the City Council in June 2019. The city’s financial statements are audited annually by an independent auditor. The most recent audit for 2018 received a clean opinion. If you would like more information, visit ScottsdaleAZ.gov and search “budget.”

Resources (in millions of dollars)

Expenses (in millions of dollars)

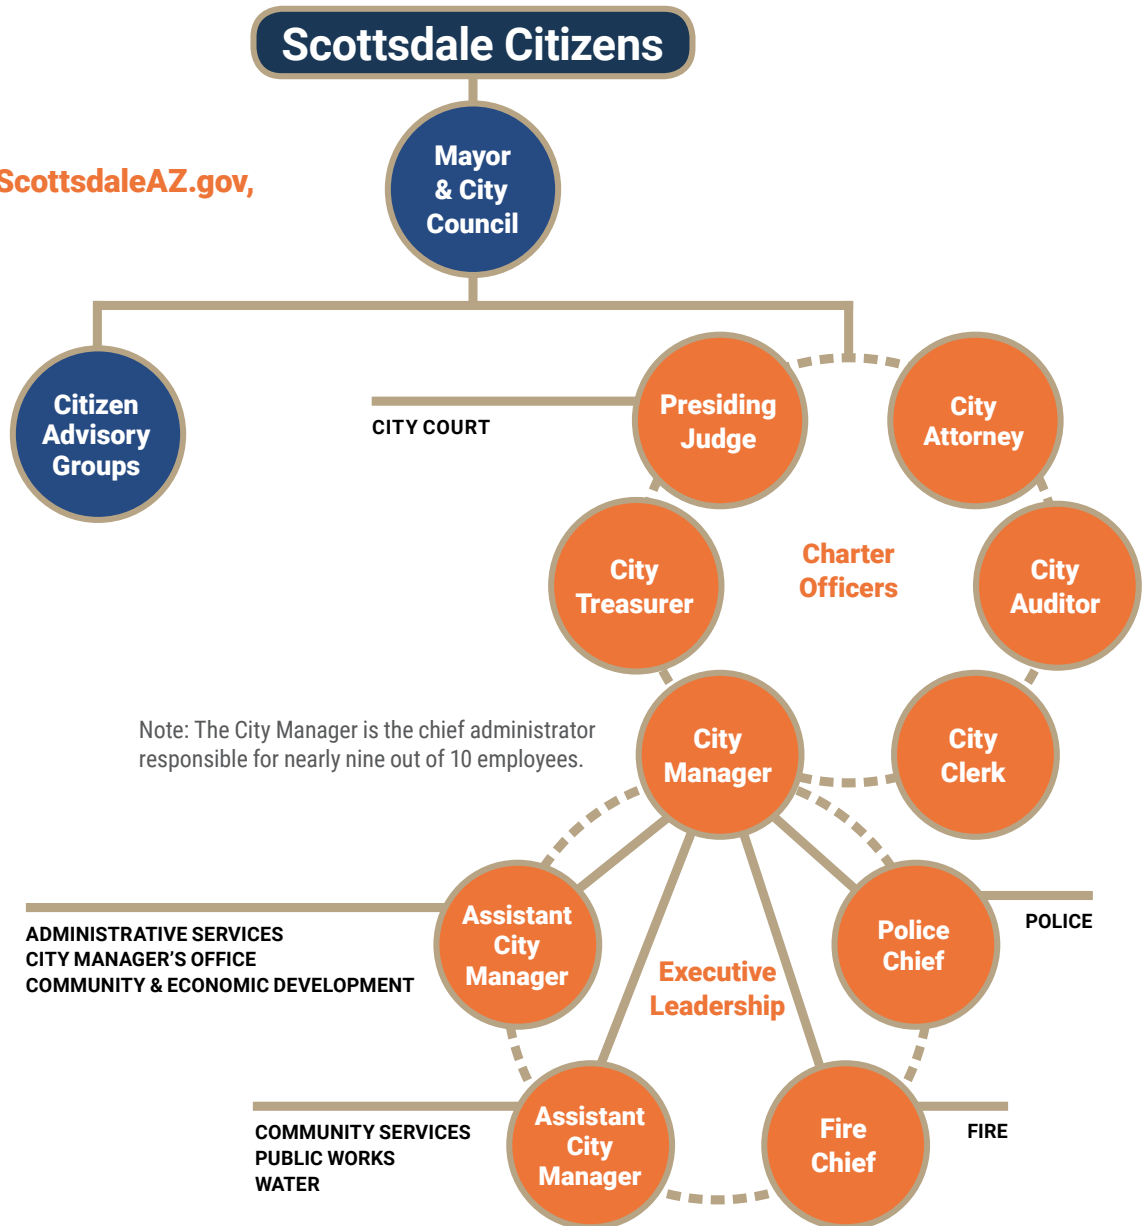

Note: The increases in resources and expenses reflect the investment of voter approved transportation sales tax and anticipated bonds for capital improvement.

Some numbers may not add correctly due to rounding.

An Introduction to Our Leadership

The City Council is the governing body for Scottsdale. The council consists of the mayor and six council members who are elected to represent the city at large and serve overlapping, four-year terms. These seven citizens oversee city government and set policy, approve programs, appropriate funds, enact laws, select charter officers and appoint residents to serve on advisory bodies. The mayor is the chair of the Scottsdale City Council and presides over its meetings, which are typically held on Tuesdays in the City Hall Kiva Forum located at 3939 N. Drinkwater Blvd. in Old Town Scottsdale. The City Council hires six officers to advise them on policy issues and run day-to-day operations. They are collectively known as the charter officers because their positions are spelled out in the City Charter, a voter-approved document which describes the organization and authority of city government in Scottsdale. These positions are the city attorney, city auditor, city clerk, city manager, city treasurer and presiding city judge.
